Fair helps businesses

By CHRYSTAL PHILPOTT
City editor

Exposure, publicity, education—no matter how they said it, the general consensus among businesses at Expo '86 Saturday and Sunday was that they all came for basically the same reason.

More than 50 businesses sponsored booths at Expo '86, a trade fair, held this weekend at the Coles County Airport. The expo is conducted every other year by the Charleston Area Chamber of Commerce and the Mattoon Association of Commerce.

Expo '86 is the seventh expo in 14 years.

"You might and do pick up some business (at the expo)," Chris Lindsay, a real estate broker for McCrocklin Realty, 321 Lake Land Blvd., Mattoon, said.

"The exposure is more important than anything," he said. "You just can't put a price on that."

Lindsay said that not only had McCrocklin Realty had booths at the expo in past years, but because of the response they had had at the trade fair, they intended to return for future expos.

The booths at the expo had representatives present to answer questions. Many also gave away pamphlets, literature on the business and gifts including pencils, pens, pop bottle caps, match books, balloons, candy, refrigerator magnets, plastic carrying bags and key rings—anything big enough to put a company name and address on.

The Diet Center, 616 W. Lincoln Ave., offered an additional attraction to its booth to draw visitors in—a magic mirror.

The mirror "magically" made anyone standing in front of it look 20 pounds slimmer, Diet Center counselor Charlotte Emel said.

Jim Frame, vice president of marketing for the Bonanza Corporation, whose local business is on W. Route 16, expressed reasons similar to many of the other exhibitors for having a booth at the expo.

"One of the things we want to do is let the people of Coles County know who Bonanza is and what we do," he said.

"I think it's the same with all the businesses here. I think that's really the primary purpose of all this—educating the people on what's available," he said.

One of the largest exhibits at the expo, located outside the hangar from the rest of the booths, was a 35 foot inflatable replica of the Statue of Liberty, sponsored by Eagle Bank, 701 Sixth St.

The expo is the first time the inflatable statue has been in the Midwest. "The Lady," as the exhibit was labeled, has appeared in the Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, in the halftime show in the Rose Bowl, on the David Letterman Show and as a center piece for a $250-a-plate fund raiser for the restoration of the Statue of Liberty sponsored by Lee Iacocca.

BOG to vote Monday on teacher pay raise

By BILL DENNIS
Administration editor

Final approval for a 6.8 percent salary increase for faculty and staff is expected at Monday's Board of Governors Executive Committee meeting.

Tentative approval of the contract was reached in August between the BOG and instructors. Final BOG approval was delayed until ratification by members of the University Professionals of Illinois and the American Federation of Teachers.

Carol Elder, UPI chief negotiator, said 96 percent of UPI members who voted approved of the contract.

The contract seems to meet approval from all concerned.

"I think it's a very good settlement," said Eastern President Stanley Rives. "I am confident it will go through."

Elder said she is pleased with the increase, "considering cuts that have been made by legislators and the governor."

She said appropriations for higher education were first introduced, it included a 6.5 percent increase for salaries. By the time it reached the governor, the salary increase had dwindled to 3 percent.

The contract calls for a 6.8 percent average salary increase for faculty and support professionals.

The contract includes a fund for merit awards for instructors, Rives said. Under the program, faculty members who are especially experienced or judged to be "excellent" receive an extra $1,000, he said.

Instructors and support staff would receive back pay from the beginning of the current school season in October's paycheck.

The original contract was approved in 1985 and requires renegotiation every year until it expires in 1988.

Blood drive starts Monday

By JULIE LEWIS
Activities editor

Because of the recent blood supply shortage, the American Red Cross will be flying some of the blood donated Monday at Eastern back to St. Louis, said senior Sheryl Budde, blood drive general chairman.

Budde said if the weather conditions are bad police escorts are scheduled to get the fresh blood back to St. Louis. "That's why we are really encouraging a good turnout Monday," Budde added. "They have a big demand right now."

The blood drive is scheduled from noon to 5 p.m. Monday Union Grand Ballroom. It will continue from 11 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday.

Budde said to donate, students must be at least 17 years old, weigh at least 105 pounds and have no history of cancer, hepatitis or heart disease.

She said the Blood Drive Committee has set a goal of 1,450 pints for the fall semester. Last spring the drive exceeded the set goal of 1,600 with a total collection of 1,645 pints.

"We usually get less of a turnout in the fall than in the spring," Budde said. She added the reason is probably because students, especially freshmen, are unaware of the drive.

"Usually by the spring semester everyone knows about the drive and comes out to donate," she said. "That's why the goal is not as high for the fall drive."

Budde said the drive has always been a success in the past because students at Eastern really care. "Red Cross is always so excited about coming to Eastern," she added.

Publicity coordinator Lisa Santucci said her committee has worked hard to get the drive publicized on campus. "We put up signs in all the dorms, contacted the local businesses, made public service announcements over the radio, talked with all the health classes and used campus clips to get the students aware," Santucci said.

Budde said Wednesday is also Buddy Day, a day when first time donors are encouraged to come in with a friend and go through the donating process using the buddy system.

Buddy Day was started a couple of semesters ago, and it worked so well that they continued it. "We hope for a really big turnout of new donors," she said.

Budde, a first-time donor, said many people are hesitant because they have it built up in their heads that something is going to happen to them.

"The biggest thing is fainting because of the heat," Budde said. "We are hoping for nice weather for the entire week." She said fans will be available in case it stays hot.

Budde said students from many different organizations turn out to help with the drive. Some of them greet donors, get general information from the donors, direct traffic through the ballroom, walk donors to and from the snack table and sign the donors out.

Budde said the sign outs are helpful in tallying up totals for the donor contests. The four categories are fraternities, sororities, clubs and organizations and residence halls.

"The group with the highest percentage in each category gets their name on a plaque that hangs in Old Main," Budde said.

Soviets open nuke test site

KAZAKHSTANK, U.S.S.R.—Army generals opened their secret nuclear test range here for a group of Soviet and foreign journalists, showing a silent and rusted site that they said proved the Kremlin had banned nuclear testing.

Two Soviet generals on hand for the tour Saturday made it clear the visit was arranged to reinforce Moscow's appeals to the U.S. to join the moratorium on nuclear tests begun by the Kremlin in August 1985.

"The aim of our journey is to show you that our test site is silent. We would like it to remain that way forever," said Gen. Yuri V. Lebedev, who flew with the group to the hilly Central Asian site.

Before the moratorium, all Soviet tests on the site were carried out in shafts bored horizontally into the granite, said Gen. Arkady D. Ilyenko, commander of the test zone.

The moratorium was declared on the 40th anniversary of the nuclear attack on Hiroshima by the U.S. ending World War II.

Cash and free trips for Congress

WASHINGTON—Both of Illinois' U.S. Senators Alan Dixon and Paul Simon, last year increased their incomes by more than $22,000 each, by making speeches at conferences and conventions — often sponsored by groups with stake in legislation before Congress, records show.

Dixon, Simon and other lawmakers defend the practice of accepting such fees, as well as expence paid trips to the meeting sites.

However, some critics and public interest groups contend the Congressional lecture circuit is a scandal. And, some of Dixon's have become an issue his re-election campaign, where he faces a challenge from state Rep. Judy Kohler, R-Henry.

Since the Watergate scandal of the mid-1970s, Congress has tinkered with rules on what members may accept in honoraria.

Nearly all of Congress' honoraria result from speeches and last year, lawmakers were permitted to keep fees up to 30 percent of their $75,100 salaries — about $22,500— anything more had to be turned over to charity. But recently Congress raised the Senate's honoraria limit to 30 percent in 1986.

Some of the groups also deny the money buys influence. "If that were the case the ABA (American Bankers Association) perhaps would have been successful in passing legislation that would have been helpful to the banking industry," said spokesman Kirk Williamson. "We're not out to buy anyone."

'Master Terrorist' is still free...

JERUSALEM (AP)— Terrorist leader Abu Nidal, feeling the U.S. heat, has decamped from his Libyan headquarters and begun shuttling secretly among Arab capitals says an Israeli expert on the notorious Palestinian fugitive.

Yossi Melman also writes that Israeli intelligence officials suspect Abu Nidal, blamed by some for the recent Pan Am hijacking in Pakistan and the Istanbul synagogue massacre has, ties to East European secret services.

"Abu Nidal's organization is the only one which is able to maintain a secret infrastructure in Eastern Europe," Melman says in his new book "The Master Terrorist".

The 215-page study is the most thorough summation of the 49 year-old Nidal's deadly career. It says his group, Fatah-Revolutionary Council, is today's single greatest Palestinian terrorist threat.

Israeli intelligence specialists blame Abu Nidal for more than 100 terror attacks and 200 deaths in over 13 years, Melman reports.

Major recent attacks include last years bombings of British and Jordanian airline offices, a cafe in Rome, hotels in Greece and the gun—grenade slaughter of 16 people in Rome and Vienna airports last December.

Israeli and other specialists suggest Abu Nidal also may have plotted two shocking attacks earlier this month— the Pan Am jetliner hijacking at Karachi airport in which 20 people died and the massacre of 21 Jewish worshipers at a synagogue in Istanbul, Turkey.

In his book, Melman, who is diplomatic correspondent for the Israeli newspaper Davar, relies heavily on official Israeli sources. But much of his detailed knowledge of the terror group derives from his own coverage of the London trial of three alleged Abu Nidal agents convicted in the near-fatal shooting of the Israeli ambassador to Britain in 1982.

Melman, citing Israeli and Western intelligence sources, says the Abu Nidal group has no more than 150-200 active members, drawn for two main sources: Palestinian students in Europe and Palestinian refugee camps in Lebanon.

Abu Nidal— Aribac for "Father of Struggle" broke away from Yasser Arafat's Fatah guerilla group in 1974 and founded his organization in Baghdad, Iraq, with the help of Iraqi intelligence services, Melman says.

... but the military can't do much

WASHINGTON (AP)— Despite reams of rhetoric and multi-million dollar budgets, the United States have no effective strategy for coping with the increasing threat of terrorism and guerilla warfare, according to a pentagon study.

The report stated that effort to protect its interests around the world is hampered by bureaucratic infighting and and the inability of U.S. leaders and agencies to "comprehend the nature of this type of conflict."

The report was prepared over the past year by a joint team from the Army and Air Force. There are no plans to make the report available to the public although a copy was released to Associated Press.

While the authors are military, the report looked at civilian agencies such as the State Department and the Central Intelligence Agency.

The report said is is intended as "a start point" for the U.S. government to understand the problems and wasn't intended to "recommend those few relevent 'fixes' that would settle this bothersome problem once and for all. As such, the the project is not a blueprint for dialogue."

More and more the study noted, U.S. interests around the world are being threatened by "low intensity conflicts," a term used to include Central America, the Mid-east and the Philip-pines.

"As a nation, we do not understand low-intensity conflicts," the study concluded. "We respond without unity of effort, we execute our activities poorly and we alck the ability to sustain operations."

America's vast and powerful military machine was built to fight a nuclear and large-scale conventional war in western Europe, but was not structured to cope with the current situation, which the report notes is "neither war nor peace."

A central feature of the Reagan ad-ministration's foreign policy has been to strike back at terrorists who hit U.S. citizens.

Officers right at home in Foundation house

By BILL DENNIS
Administration editor

The newly opened Foundation House should help fund-raising efforts, said Eastern personnel who have moved into the facility.

"The house is just lovely," said Eastern President Stanley Rives at an open house held for the facility on Sunday. He said it is practical because of its immediate access for off-campus visitors.

He said the tudor-style house is a more pleasant place to visit than the old offices of development and alumni services, which used to be in Old Main.

This fall, the offices of Charles Ross, development director, and Charles Titus, alumni services director, were moved to the Foundation House, 1548 Fourth St. The house also holds room for the new director of Annual Giving, three support personnel, a mail expediter and between 10 and 20 student workers.

Between greeting visitors, Ross said the move was practical because of the increased space.

"All of us have more room," he said. "We can also share staff much easier than we could at Old Main."

Offices for Ross, Titus and Audrey Dumentat, new director of Annual Giving are upstairs. The downstairs area contains a kitchen, a living room area, desks and equipment for staff and a board room. The basement area holds the Foundation's mail room.

Plans have been made to officially change the name of the facility to the "Brainard House," after original Foundation member H. Ogden Brainard. Thornburgh said Brainard was the board attorney who helped get the Foundation its non-profit status.

No date has been set for the official name change, Thornburgh said. It will probably take place at the Foundation's Board of Directors meeting in January, he said.

Eastern student to appear in P.M. Magazine episode

By CRAIG EDWARDS
Assistant staff editor

Three hours of filming a national television program is all part of a days work for senior home economics education major Marta Mitchell.

Mitchell, who is spending her first seven weeks working at the Emporium in Arcola, will appear on P.M. Magazine Thursday.

The Champaign affiliate of CBS's P.M. Magazine was filming at the Arcola Emporium Tuesday while Mitchell was working at The Cook's Collection, a gourmet kitchen shop. "They asked me to do some demonstrations," Mitchell said.

Todd Williamson, chief photographer for P.M. Magazine, said the show's producers try to choose locations that are appealing to viewers in Central Illinois. "We try to show off unique sights in the area," Williamson said.

Williamson said P.M. Magazine co-host Keri White found the location in Arcola and thought it would be an interesting place to include on the show.

He said Thursday's edition of P.M. Magazine will include introductions that were taped at the Emporium on Tuesday. The segment with Mitchell will occupy about two minutes of actual air time, he said.

Mitchell performs regular cooking demonstrations at the shop. "We put together pasta dishes and cakes and demonstrate the use of kitchen gadgets," Mitchell said.

"I realize now that there really are television bloopers," Mitchell said. She said the cameraman was taping while she was in the middle of a demonstration when her mind went blank. "I just stared right into the camera and couldn't say a word," Mitchell said.

She said the entire filming took about three hours. "The television crew came in and set up and we started taping segments.

Home economics instructor Gayle Strader said students in the program spend seven weeks working in a field of their choice and nine weeks student teaching.

Mitchell said she became interested in home economics in sixth grade. "It's not just a profession," she said, "It's something I use in everyday life."

P.M. Magazine can be seen at 6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday on WCIA-Channel 3.

AB fund use soon to be revealed

By DOUGLAS BACKSTROM
Government editor

Eastern President Stanley Rives and student government officials will meet Monday to discuss the allocation of about $88,000 in reserve funds.

Rives would not say what the funds were allocated for during the summer.

Because Rives promised the student government he would not talk about the matter until the meeting, he would not comment on the allocation any further.

Rives and the senate have scheduled an open meeting for 3 p.m. in Rives' office, Old Main room 103.

Rives would have scheduled the meeting earlier last week, but Apportionment Board Chairman Christy Wolfe was out of town because of a death in the family.

The Daily Eastern News on Thursday requested from Eastern's business office information regarding the transfer of AB reserve funds. However, administrators of that office and several others said the information could not be made available until early this week.

Student Body President Mike Madigan said last week he was told by Union Area Head Bill Clark that funds in excess of $88,000 were used by Rives this summer. Clark also declined comment Thursday and refused to release AB reserve fund figures.

Giving higher education the boost it needs

The Reagan Administration has not exactly proven itself to be a good friend of higher education in past years. Student loans, government grants and various other types of educational funding have traditionally been at the top of Reagan's budgetary hit-list.

Editorial

That's why it's so refreshing to see a glimmer of sanity coming not only out of the White House, but also out of both parties in both houses of Congress on the student loan issue.

A bi-partisan, joint committee of the House and Senate last week approved a bill which, if passed, will accomplish the two most important goals in the student loan system—getting more money to students who need it, and keeping it away from those who don't.

The bill is expected to pass both houses of Congress and get Reagan's signature by the end of this legislative session.

If passed, it will increase the current $2,500 available through the Guaranteed Student Loan program to a maximum of $2,650 for first- and second-year students and up to $4,000 for third- and fourth-year students.

It would also give graduate students an opportunity to take out loans of up to $7,000.

The bill also calls for $200-per-year increases in maximum Pell Grants over the next five years. That means that the current $2,100-per-student limit on Pell Grants could be raised to $3,100 by 1991.

But no matter how much money is put into the system, it can't work as long as abuse is possible. The new bill cracks down on loan fraud by requiring more specific financial information from applicants, and specifies that the loans will be disbursed over two semesters rather than one. This would give the government a chance to better keep track of who owes what, and the half of the money not being used in the first semester can be earning interest.

The bill also gives a six-month grace period after graduation before students have to pay back the loans, and can offer deferred payment for up to two years in some cases.

At last, Congress and the President are acknowledging what many of us have known for years: that education is too important to be shuffled around like just another budget problem.

Your turn

Salvi's views on loans are fiction

Editor:

I would like to respond to Al Salvi's (republican congressional candidate) comment on unnecessary student loans (Sept. 22). I believe this to be more fiction than reality. I do agree, as most people do, that students with family incomes of $100,000 shouldn't receive college loans.

I do believe they do have safe guards from keeping the students with family incomes of $100,000 from getting loans. Of course, there are students that do get through the cracks in the system but they are a low percent of all students that get loans.

The image of the student using the loan money to pay for their European vacations or investing the money in high-earning accounts is an image of the past and of the few. For many people like myself, I wouldn't be continuing with my education without these loans. For the most part, the loans are not an "upper class welfare system."

Assailants should apologize to SIU

Editor:

As a student at Southern Illinois University, I demand an apology from the Eastern Illinois students responsible for the treatment of the (SIU) Saluki mascot during last Saturday's thrashing of our unfortunate football team.

It's one thing for those disreputable Panthers to pummel the hapless Salukis into dust. But quite another to beat up on an innocent mascot, a woman of considerably smaller bulk than her counterparts of the gridiron.

If you must beat up on a Saluki, perhaps you should take your aggressions to members of the offensive line, who average around 6-foot-5, 260 pounds.

Those guys would be only too happy to take out their frustrations on unsportsmanlike Eastern thugs.

Belated congratulations to The Daily Eastern News editorial staff, who took the moral high ground and lashed the Eastern fans for their role in Saturday's debacle. However, I'm forced to assume that a close inspection of the Panther mascot would find a Panther every bit as "mangy" as our abused Saluki.

The aforementioned editorial also mentioned that the fans were probably acting out of a drunken stupor, as if this somehow excused the rowdy cretins' behavior.

In a battle, there is no excuse for attacking non-combatants. Obviously, Eastern fans will be the ones who, in combat, won't fire on an armed enemy, but will take careful aim at the red crosses on the sleeves and helmets of the unarmed unfortunates employed to support the wounded.

A student, a peanut and temptation

College students are all low-life dead beats.

Past experiences have shown this is the attitude most local townies take against students, or at least this particular college student.

I recently had a run-in with a townie, namely the man who was obviously in charge at a local five-and-dime store, in which I suddenly became a typical juvenile delinquent.

I was innocently shopping for my roommate's birthday card, when out of nowhere, my other roommate and I spotted the chocolate covered peanuts. You know, the kind you buy by the pound, and eat while watching "All My Children."

It was obvious that my body did not need to eat a pound of these incredibly fattening peanuts, and I have a 12 o'clock class anyway, so that ruled that idea out. However, we were intrigued by the dispenser the peanuts were in.

In order to get the peanuts out of the container, you have to pull on this cute little black ball, which, by the way, squeaks profusely.

Unable to control my curiosity any longer, I pulled the little ball, ever so slightly, and low and behold... a single chocolate covered peanut fell out.

I ate it.

Yes, I know, it's incredible, but I honestly didn't think anyone else was going to buy this lonely peanut, and it seemed physically impossible to put it back into the cute dispenser, so I figured I'd spare this poor peanut the humiliation of sitting in the bottom of the tray until someone threw it away.

The only problem was I got caught.

I was chewing on the peanut—incidentally, it was delicious—when from around the corner came this irate man.

"Helping yourself are you? I heard you working the machine, so don't try to deny it! I pay for those, and you kids think you can just come in here and help

Personal file:

Amy Carr

yourself!"

Whoa! I swallowed real quick, and proceeded to apologize to the man. Mind you, I even called him sir.

He then said, "Let me tell you a little story." The story consisted of his son catching a college student stealing a 30-cent piece of taffy from the store and receiving a $150 fine from a Charleston judge.

The man informed me that I could be arrested and very possibly face the same fine.

Geez, the peanut wasn't that good.

I continued to apologize, but everytime I opened my mouth, he interrupted. This one really hit home, "What would your parents think? Ha! You probably don't care!"

O.K., so I'm not in a sorority, and I wasn't wearing a dress, but I hardly think that I look like the type of dead-beat who could care less about my parents, or get my kicks from going to the local five-and-dime stores stealing peanuts.

I don't quite remember how the incident ended, but I do recall asking him if he would take my roommate's check. Needless to say, he was not too thrilled with my request.

As if to add to my embarrassment, only an hour later, I was walking out of the grocery store with nearly $80 worth of groceries, when who do I almost literally run into but the 'friendly' man from the store.

I looked him straight in the eye and said, "I stole these!" Just kidding, but I was tempted.

Trio concert kicks off music series at Tarble Arts Center

By DANE BUCZKOWSKI
Staff writer

The Eastern Trio once again performed for classical music lovers at the Tarble Arts Center Sunday afternoon.

The trio, featuring Karen Larvick Sanders, piano; Barbara Sturgis-Everett, violin; and Donald Tracy, cello; marked the first concert of the Tarble Chamber Music Series.

The audience of about 100 heard the three musicians perform the "Trio in E-flat" by Beethoven and the "Trio in E-Minor" by Dvorak.

"We played as well as we could on this day," Sanders said.

Audience members however, weren't as modest about the performance. Eastern employee Frank Abell said "they are always a treat . . . they play with such elegance."

"I have been watching the trio from the beginning and they get better every year," Abell added.

Sanders said the group began rehearsing for the performance at the start of the fall semester.

Because members of the group are all Eastern faculty they are involved in teaching and giving workshops around the Illinois area, Sanders said.

The Eastern Trio has been in residence at Eastern since 1981, when the members first performed together. In 1983 the group had a performance televised.

The trio performs a diverse repertoire from the 18th to the 20th century.

Concert-goers of the Tarble Chamber Series attend the concerts because of the uniqueness of the music, said junior Dave Groll.

"This music is a fine alternative to the other music on campus," Groll said.

The next artist to be featured in the Chamber Music Series is Ko Iwasaki, a virtuoso cellist. He will perform at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Dvorak Concert Hall.

Iwasaki, who was born in Japan, came to the United States in 1964 on a Fulbright Scholarship and studied with world reknown teachers.

He has performed around the world and was a member of the Contemporary Chamber Ensemble under Arthur Wiesberg. Iwasaki will play pieces by Shubert, Debussy and Chopin.

Eastern pioneer dies in St. Louis last May

An instructor who coordinated Eastern's first psychology honors program died last spring.

Dr. Frank E. Hustmyer, 59, died May 18 in Barnes' Hospital in St. Louis.

Paul Panek, psychology department chair, said Dr. Hustmyer was the first coordinator of the department honors program which involved developing and teaching the honor's courses and advising the psychology honor students.

Dr. Hustmyer joined Eastern's faculty as a psychology instructor in 1969. In 1972, he received a $3,973 grant from the Illinois Department of Mental Health to research personality differences and selective function of brain hemispheres.

"Dr. Hustmyer was a well respected classroom teacher and a very productive researcher," Panek said.

"He contributed to research development," he said. "He engaged a lot of students in his research." Panek said Hustmyer often presented research papers to psychology conventions.

Panek said Dr. Hustmyer taught mostly specialized courses in psychology which are currently being taught by other instructors in the department. A temporary instructor, Kim Beystehner, is teaching the introduction to psychology courses, Panek said.

Dr. Hustmyer is survived by his wife, Rosemary; his sons, Frank, Kurt, John and Pete; his daughter, Roseanne; and his brother Tom.

Truman scholarship offer open to Eastern students

By CATHY VELASCO
Staff writer

Eastern social science majors should not miss the opportunity to apply for this year's Harry S. Truman Scholarship, said Larry Thorsen, faculty Truman Scholarship representative.

The Truman Scholarship was established by Congress in 1975, Thorsen said. The foundation operates an educational scholarship program designed to provide opportunities for outstanding students with potential leadership ability to prepare for careers in government service.

The scholarship is a "full ride," which covers expenses up to $6,500 per year for junior and senior year and two years of graduate school, Thorsen said.

To be eligible, students must be full-time sophomores, have at least a B average, stand in the upper fourth of the class, and be a U.S. citizen and heading toward a career in government.

Thorsen also said sophomores with more than 75 hours of credit are ineligible for the award.

Interested students need to submit a statement of career plans, a list of past public service activities or other leadership positions and a 600-word essay discussing a public policy issue of their choice which is due Oct. 24, Thorsen said.

Final decisions will be made by April, he said.

Interested students should contact Thorsen in Coleman Hall room 214H by Oct. 10.

Percussion group to perform first concert of the semester

By SOPHIA CHRISTMAN
Staff writer

Eastern's Contemporary Percussion Group will give its first concert of the season 7:30 p.m. Monday in Dvorak Concert Hall.

Johnny Lee Lane founded the percussion program in 1974 and is current director for the seven-member group.

"Most people stay for four years, and if they're grad students they stay for two years," Lane said.

He said the Eastern Marimba Orchestra and the new Latin Percussion group will also be performing.

Rick Fenwick, a member of the Marimba Orchestra and Contemporary Percussion Ensemble predicts that the concert "will peak."

"This is the first year we are having more than one percussion ensemble," Fenwick said, adding the members practice about "three and a half to four hours a day."

In the concert he said the group will "be doing some African stuff," with instruments such as "conga drums, the drum machine, bongos and cowbells."

Lane said the group will also perform "Prelude for Percussion" by Malloy Miller and "Canticle No. 1" by Lou Harrison.

Lane said people come from as far away as Paris, Ill. to hear the percussion group.

"We have a very good ensemble and we would like for everyone to come out," Lane said.

Country gifts new attractions of new store on Charleston square

By STUART TART
Staff writer

Hand-made country gifts are one of the new attractions of The Needle Nook, recently relocated to 503 7th St.

Marla Dawson, owner and proprietor of The Needle Nook, said that she moved her business from 624 W. Lincoln, because she needed space to expand her inventory.

"We changed (locations) so that we would have more space," she said. "We changed so that we could look to adding country gifts (to our inventory)."

The Needle Nook carries supplies for various country crafts, Dawson said, including needlework, weaving, pottery, ceramics and tole painting. The shop also carries knitting machines and offers framing and matting services.

Dawson said she first opened The Needle Nook in June 1983, because she saw a need in the area for a craft store.

"I enjoyed doing needlework myself, and I had problems obtaining supplies," she said.

Dawson said the first site of The Needle Nook was on 18th St. near Wilb Walkers East. She started out selling counted cross stitch supplies, and the business just "took off." Currently, Dawson said, The Needle Nook has the widest variety of counted cross stitch supplies in the area.

The Needle Nook moved one year later to 624 W. Lincoln Ave. in West Park Plaza. At this time, Dawson began selling yarn and offering a framing service.

"As we've moved, we've expanded each time," she said.

The Needle Nook has expanded once again with their move to the square. Handmade country gifts are the store's newest attraction.

"We have high-quality handmade gifts from all over the state," she said.

Customer Cindy Livingston said that she buys most of her counted cross stitch supplies at The Needle Nook. She said she likes the friendliness of the employees and the fact that she can get help if she needs it.

... The eye of the beholder

Saturday afternoon provided a great time for the "Arts on the Square" festival.

With the children and adults enjoying the crafts, pictures, balloons and food, no one seemed to mind the warm temperatures.

The Charleston Student Chapter Arts Council sponsored a children arts table. This council provided chalk, glue and paper for the children. The children drew designs on the blocked off street.

Clockwise from the top: a Eastern art major helps hand out art supplies, a Charleston woman looks over some crafts, Dr. Robert Lineweber blows up some balloons, Sherrie Adamson continues some stitchery and area residents enjoy some of the refreshments provided.

Eastern's Curt Elchuk maneuvers free for a shot in goal during the Panthers' 2-1 victory over Illinois State Sunday at Lakeside Field. The Panthers lifted their record to 4-1-1 on the season.

Ruggers breeze to victory

Eastern's rugby club clobbered the Macoupin County Wildcats 26-0 Saturday.

Eastern, 1-1 on the season, raced to a 20-0 halftime lead and never looked back en route to the shutout victory.

Doug Visnak, one of Eastern's tri-captains, spearheaded the attack by scoring the ruggers' first two tris of the game.

Outside-half Dave Zdenovec added two tris in the contest for Eastern.

Eastern's defense also performed well, holding Macoupin County on three goal-line stands.

In addition, inside-half Chris Wileford intercepted a pass and ran 60 yards for an Eastern tri.

Kyle Vansickle booted six extra points on the day for the Eastern ruggers.

Eastern returns to action next weekend by competing in the Union Tournament at Peoria. The rugger placed third in that tournament last season.

Cards set to wage war

A pair of division rivals are set to battle Monday as the Dallas Cowboys prepare to face off against NFC East rival the St. Louis Cardinals. The game, however, is not just your ordinary National Football League matchup.

The Cowboys have long been among the cream of the crop in the NFL. The Cardinals, on the other hand, have usually been in pro football's so-called "second division."

But for as long as the Cowboys have been Super Bowl contenders, the Cardinals have always been there to frustrate "America's Team."

Case in point: Last season an injury-riddled Cardinal team upset the playoff-bound Cowboys 21-10.

This year, the Cardinals head coach is none other than a former Dallas assistant coach, Gene Stallings. When asked about the St. Louis-Dallas rivalry, and the prospect of facing his old team, Stallings tried to downplay the issue.

"Once the whistle blows for the opening kickoff, it's just going to be another game," said Stallings. "I'm excited in the fact that I'll be facing my old mentor (Dallas head coach Tom Landry) but that won't enter my mind when the games begins."

Stallings also seemed to have a difficult time in trying to analyze why the Cardinals have been a thorn in the Cowboys' side for so many years.

"For some reason or another, we (Dallas) always had a tough time when we played St. Louis. If we didn't lose to the Cardinals, we would barely win the game in the last few minutes," Stallings said.

"Maybe the reason why the Cardinals played so well against us was because of the fact that we, as humans, are always envious of those who always succeed. And that would come out in their (Cardinals) play."

When asked what was his best/worst memory of the rivalry, Stallings noted a tipped pass reception by Pat Tilley that went for a Cardinal touchdown in last year's 21-10 Cardinal victory. "It made me look bad," said Stallings, who was then the Cowboy's defensive back coach.

Another former Cowboy who has infiltrated the Cardinal camp as a coach is former All-Pro defensive back Mel Renfro. Renfro was rather poetic when he reminisced about past battles with the Cardinals.

"I can't wait for this game to be over with. All my years that I spent in the Dallas organization—it's like home to me," Renfro said. "Being across the field from the Cowboys at game time, with red and white clothes on, is going to be like eating with my left hand," Renfro added.

"But I'll eat with that left hand because I'm so hungry for a victory."

When the Cardinals' All-Pro linebacker E.J. Junior was asked of his feelings toward Dallas, his comments came very blunt and straight forward.

"I can't stand Dallas!" Junior growled. "Everywhere I go, it's Dallas this, Dallas that. Dallas . . . America's team. Who gave them that name anyway?"

Junior said there is a difference in the fan reaction at Busch Stadium whenever the Cowboys are in town.

"The fans are very much louder when the Cowboys are in town. St. Louis fans absolutely hate Dallas," Junior said. "It helps us get fired up before the game, but once the game starts, we (the players) really don't hear the fans."

Varsity harriers run over; JV runners shine on road

MAHOMET—Eastern's men's cross country team had a busy day Saturday as the harriers split their squad and competed in two separate meets.

The varsity team traveled to Mahomet as it participated in the ten-kilometer Illinois Invitational. The Panthers finished eighth out of nine teams in a meet that featured a strong field of runners and teams.

Nebraska won the meet with 72 points, followed by Indiana with 76 points and host Illinois with 89 points. Eastern finished the day with a total of 214 team points.

A total of 70 runners finished the meet which was won by David Halle of Illinois. Halle ran a time of 31:30.

Leading the Panthers in scoring was John Wells who finished in 31st position with a time of 33:55. Other Eastern finishers were Bruce Albright, 40th, 34:32; Tom Buchanan, 50th, 35:26; Al Oaks, 57th, 35:53; and Bryan Reed, 70th, 38:31.

Because of the wet running conditions of the course, two Eastern runners were unable to finish the meet. Jim Maton and Brian Wright both suffered sprained ankles while running the course and had to come out of the race which greatly hurt Eastern's overall team score.

"Jim (Maton) was our third runner and Brian (Wright) was our fourth or fifth runner before they got hurt because of the poor running conditions. This hurt us quite a bit," Eastern's assistant cross country coach Tom Akers said.

"The course really took its toll on us. Last year this course was very rough and bumpy but with all the rain we have been having it made the footing very slippery," Akers said.

Despite the poor conditions, Akers said he still believes his team could have run a better race.

"We should have done a little better then we showed today. I think we were a bit tired from all the hot weather and hard practices we have been having lately," Akers said.

Despite the poor showing, Akers said he was pleased with the running of Wells, the Panthers leading scorer.

"I believe he (Wells) improved on his time from last year's meet," Akers said, adding that that is quite a accomplishment considering the slippery conditions of this year's meet.

Wells was pleased with the race he ran.

"Place-wise I am satisfied. I wanted to have a faster time but I started the race a bit too quick which hurt my time," Wells said. "The competition was very tough. The only other time we will run against this strong of competition will be in our district meet."

While the varsity team was having a rough time of it at Mahomet, the junior varsity team had a much better showing at the Danville Invitational.

Eastern's junior varsity team divided into two groups with group A finishing the meet in second place out of 10 teams with 52 points.

Vincennes Junior College placed first in the meet with 35 points. The Panthers B squad finished the eight-kilometer meet in the lower end of the pack with 121 points.

Steve Conlon led the Panther's A team with a seventh place finish and a time of 27:18. Other top finishers for Eastern were Brian Gordon, 9th, 27:47; and Sam Kling, 11th, 27:50.

The meet was won by Don Klingel of SIU-Edwardsville with a time of 26:52.

Neil Moore, Eastern's cross country coach, said he was quite pleased with the performance of his harriers as a whole.

"I thought Steve (Conlon) ran an outstanding race. He really did a good job," Moore said. "Our first team (Eastern's A team) was able to run in a pack which helped us take second place in team scoring."

Moore said that some of the Panthers' JV runners showed him they can run on a varsity level and might participate in Eastern's next varsity meet which will be the Washington University Invitational, held October 11 at St. Louis.

Bears pound Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP)—Sore-shouldered quarterback Jim McMahon threw three touchdowns passes to inspire a sluggish Chicago offense in its most productive performance of the season Sunday as the unbeaten Bears drubbed the Cincinnati Bengals 44-7.

The 4-0 Bears routed the 2-2 Bengals in style reminiscent of their 1985 Super Bowl season, using McMahon's leadership to cash in on five interceptions by their hard-hitting linebackers and defensive secondary. Chicago built a 21-0 first-quarter lead that was never in jeopardy.

McMahon, making his first start since separating his shoulder three weeks ago, dove one yard for the Bears' first score, tossed a 2-yard scoring pass to running back Walter Payton, then launched a perfect 53-yard scoring bomb to wide receiver Willie Gault to complete the biggest first-quarter scoring blitz against Cincinnati in five years.

The Bears' offense enjoyed its most productive game of the season, on the heels of two ragged performances in victories over Philadelphia and Green Bay. The Bengals hadn't given up three first-quarter touchdowns since 1981.

Gault led a diversified passing attack with the best game of his four-year career, making seven catches for 174 yards.

The Bears' defense also established a season high with its five interceptions, four off quarterback Boomer Esiason. Three of his first four tosses were picked off, setting up two easy Chicago touchdowns.

Safety Dave Duerson made his third interception of the season on the Bengals' first possession of the second half to set up a 20-yard touchdown pass from McMahon to tight end Emery Moorehead for an insurmountable 31-7 lead.

Booters down Midwest-ranked Illinois State

Comeback nets win

By DOBIE HOLLAND
Staff writer

The soccer fans at Lakeside Field were exposed to what can develop when a team clicks together with its back against the wall.

After trailing 1-0 with 11:49 left in the first half, the Panthers responded with two goals—in the same half—by a pair of freshmen, Garry Laidlaw and Armando Luna, paving the way for the Panthers' 2-1 win Sunday over Midwest-ranked Illinois State.

The win pushed Eastern's record to 4-1-1 while the 20th-ranked Redbirds dropped to 5-2.

"It shows we have a little bit of character to come back from a 1-0 score. This is a big victory for us," Panther coach Cizo Mosnia said.

After freshman midfielder Andrew Smith scored on a pass from senior forward Leo Guzman in the first half, Mosnia made the decision that won the game for Eastern.

"After they (ISU) scored their goal, we swung back to the 4-3-3 offense, instead of the (defensive) 4-4-2 because we were behind and it didn't matter if we lost by one goal or 10 goals—we would have lost.

"It was almost too late. Fortunately, the attack system helped out," Mosnia said.

"Most of the first half they (the Redbirds), had the ball in our half of the field. They were always in our half. When we switched (systems), we had them in their half," he added.

"We're going to do what we can do best. We are not going to adjust to the other guy's game anymore—they are going to adjust to us," he said.

Second-year Redbird coach Tim Carter saw the first half as their opportunity to bury the Panthers as ISU launched eight shots on goal at keeper Mark Simpson.

"Our inability in the first half to put them away and our two defensive lapses at midfield really hurt us," Carter said.

The momentum shifted back and forth in that half. The Panthers had the first real scoring opportunity. But freshman forward Dave Kompere was indecisive with a wide open shot that Redbird defender Guy Gobble broke up.

The play triggered the break by Guzman and Smith for the goal with 16:50 remaining in the half.

"That goal came on lack of communication between Mark (Simpson) and (defender Roger) Gusloff," Mosnia said. "This was the first time all year Roger has played the whole game so I can see victory at Lakeside Field. Freshman midfielder Dave Kompere (20) moves in the the background.

why there was a lack of communication."

And Eastern's first goal came on a similar play. The Redbirds had penetrated the defense but muffed the scoring opportunity. The Panthers turned the ball upfield and Gusloff made pass to a wide open Laidlaw with 11:49 left to tie it at one.

It was Laidlaw's third score on the season and Gusloff's first assist.

"I was lucky enough to hit it in the net," said

Laidlaw, the freshman from Sarnia, Ontario, Canada.

Another missed scoring opportunity by ISU sprung Eastern's next scoring break. Sophomore forward Mark Noffert found Luna in the clear and he gave the Panthers a 2-1 lead with 4:23 remaining in the first half.

Noffert earned his second assist. For Luna, it marked his second goal of the season.

Bosox rip Jays, clinch AL East

BOSTON (AP)—Wade Boggs became the first Boston player to get 200 hits in four consecutive seasons Sunday as the Red Sox clinched the American League East championship with a 12-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

With a 93-61 record and their first division title since 1975, the Red Sox will meet the California Angels for the AL pennant in a best-of-7 series opening here on Oct. 7.

The AL East was the last of the major league's four divisions to be settled and marked the earliest date since divisional play began in 1969 that all races were over.

Boston eliminated Toronto, its last challenger and winner of the division last season, by breaking out of a mild hitting slump and capitalizing on Blue Jay errors for five runs in the second inning and four unearned runs in the fourth.

Staked to the big lead, Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd breezed to his 16th victory, a career high. Boyd, who has lost 10, scattered eight hits, including a two-run homer by Lloyd Moseby in the fourth and Moseby's RBI single in the fifth.

Boggs, bidding for his third batting championship, walked twice and lined out to right before getting his 200th hit with a two-run single in the fourth.

He drove in a third run with a grounder in Boston's two-run eighth inning. He went 1-for-4 as his average fell a point to .352, two percentage points better than New York's Don Mattingly.

Spiker momentum continues

Wins at Marquette, Loyola extend streak to 7

By JOHN STROUD
Associate sports editor

Eastern's volleyball team proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that the fire is still burning after a 12-day break from competition with weekend road victories over Marquette and Loyola.

The Panthers moved to 9-8 and extended their winning streak to seven matches with a 15-8, 15-9, 15-5 win over Marquette Saturday and a two-hour and 43-minute marathon victory at Loyola, 14-16, 15-11, 15-9, 12-15, 18-16, on Sunday.

It was the second meeting with both teams for the Panthers this season. Eastern previously defeated Marquette at the DePaul Invitational and lost to Loyola in the first match of the season at the Northern Illinois Invitational. Marquette fell to 2-8 while Loyola goes to 3-11.

Although they got off to a slow against Marquette, the Panthers dominated the Warriors for the easy three-game sweep. However, Sunday's contest proved to be no piece of cake.

Eastern coach Betty Ralston expected that before the match even started, but she still felt the Panthers could have pulled out the win in less time.

"We should have won in three," she said. "We were up in the first game but lost. However, the entire match was close."

The Panthers survived a scare later in game five when they failed to put the game away with a 14-10 advantage, but the team came through when it counted, Ralston said.

"I think our balanced attack and overall team effort helped. We just didn't quit—the team wanted to keep the winning streak alive."

Junior Jeanne Pacione led the team with a .325 hitting percentage on 16 kills for 43 attempts. She also had 32 assists on the evening. Junior Diane Eiserman added 20 kills on 68 attempts (.191) while senior Maura LeFevour was 18 for 48 (.208).

Loyola junior Mary Just powered the Ramblers with an incredible 37 kills on 91 attempts (.296).

Against Marquette, Eastern contended with the Warriors' erratic play which in turn affected the Panthers' performance. That fact was one worry Ralston had before the match.

"You have to be really careful against a team like this," Ralston said. "But to be able to win in three helped our confidence."

LeFevour also knew that wins this weekend were important in getting the team back in the swing of competition.

"You could tell it was our first game after a 12-day break, but we played well," LeFevour said after the Marquette match.

Eiserman thought Marquette's play definitely affected the Panthers' play.

"Sometimes we play to the level of our competition, and that's not always good," she said. "We played well after having a long break. I was pleased with the way I was playing. I was finally hitting hard and on the floor."

Eiserman and sophomore Gianna Galanti both had 10 kills in the Marquette match for .318 and .250 hitting percentages respectively.

The Panthers return to action at home against Evansville Wednesday at 7 p.m.
